18/1/2022 · The repurposing of niclosamide is being tested in at least two active clinical trials for treatment in colorectal cancer (NCT02687009) and in castration-resistant prostate cancer (NCT03123978). (139) While niclosamide was shown to be more effective in inhibiting PLX/AZD-resistant versus parent cells, it did not restore the sensitivity to PLX/AZD inhibitors (Figure 5).

Cracking the context-specific PI3K signaling code

The third decade of PI3K research has been dominated by the development and testing of PI3K pathway inhibitors as potential therapeutics for cancer and immune dysfunction. Although some PI3K inhibitors have been approved for clinical use, most of these compounds have failed to meet the initial high expectations and their utility in cancer treatment is limited by systemic toxicity ...

New insights into the adaptation mechanisms of Leishmania ...

21/12/2021 · Parasites of the genus Leishmania show important genomic instability, which these pathogens use to adapt to their environment. A study by Institut Pasteur researchers shows that Leishmania exploits non-coding RNAs to mitigate toxic effects of genome instability by post-transcriptional regulation and the establishment of specialized ribosomes.

Biomarkers of Cardiovascular Disease | Circulation

Thus, a simplistic way to think of biomarkers is as indicators of disease trait (risk factor or risk marker), disease state (preclinical or clinical), or disease rate (progression). 16 Accordingly, biomarkers can be classified as antecedent biomarkers (identifying the risk of developing an illness), screening biomarkers (screening for subclinical disease), diagnostic biomarkers ...

Cardiovascular Disease Risk Tests - Medical Clinical ...

Clinical trials of drug therapy will surely track Lp-PLA2 levels, but they must also measure clinical outcomes. The editorialist also questioned whether wide-spread statin use, which has changed and grown considerably since many of the patients in previous studies were enrolled, is already offsetting the small increased risk of CVD that elevated Lp-PLA2 might confer.
