PORTFOLIO

“Spring and All,” is a poem by William Carlos Williams that describes spring as an awakening force that revitalizes the death that winter brings. Williams uses personification and a negative to positive tonal shift between stanzas in order to compare the approach of spring to the positive impact children can have on the world.

My family tree spreads wide as well.

I am a great ape, and you are a great ape, and so are chimpanzees and orangutans and bonobos, all of us distant and distrustful cousins. I know this is troubling. I too find it hard to believe there is a connection across time and space, linking me to a race of ill-mannered clowns.
